

Writing in Realtime Bodies

sha xin wei

lcc | idt | gvu • georgia tech

siggraph: visualization, semantics and aesthetics
los angeles • august 2001

a question

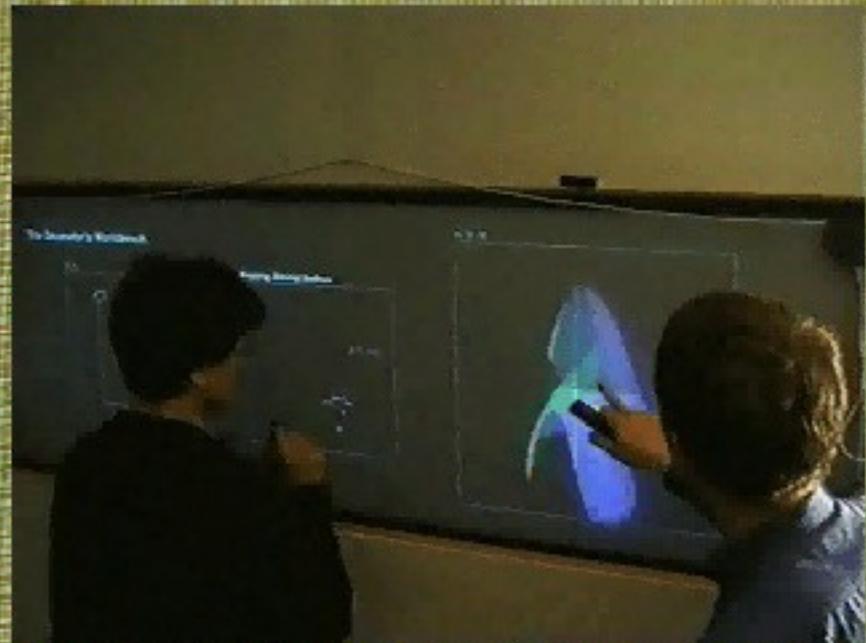

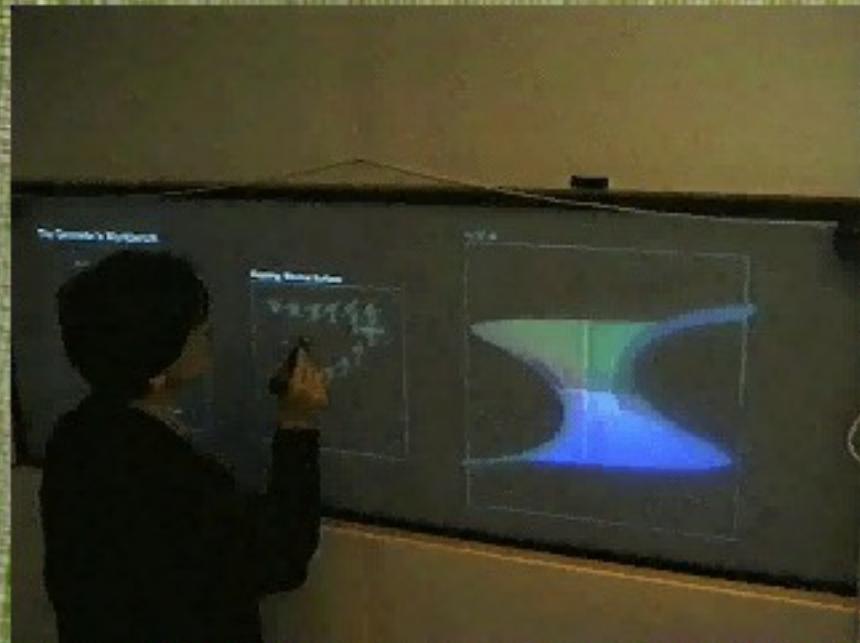

How does a drawing mean something?

a better question

How do we make meaning by drawing?

mathematics as virtual and real

- Geometer's Workbench
-

Geometers Workbench

How is it interesting?

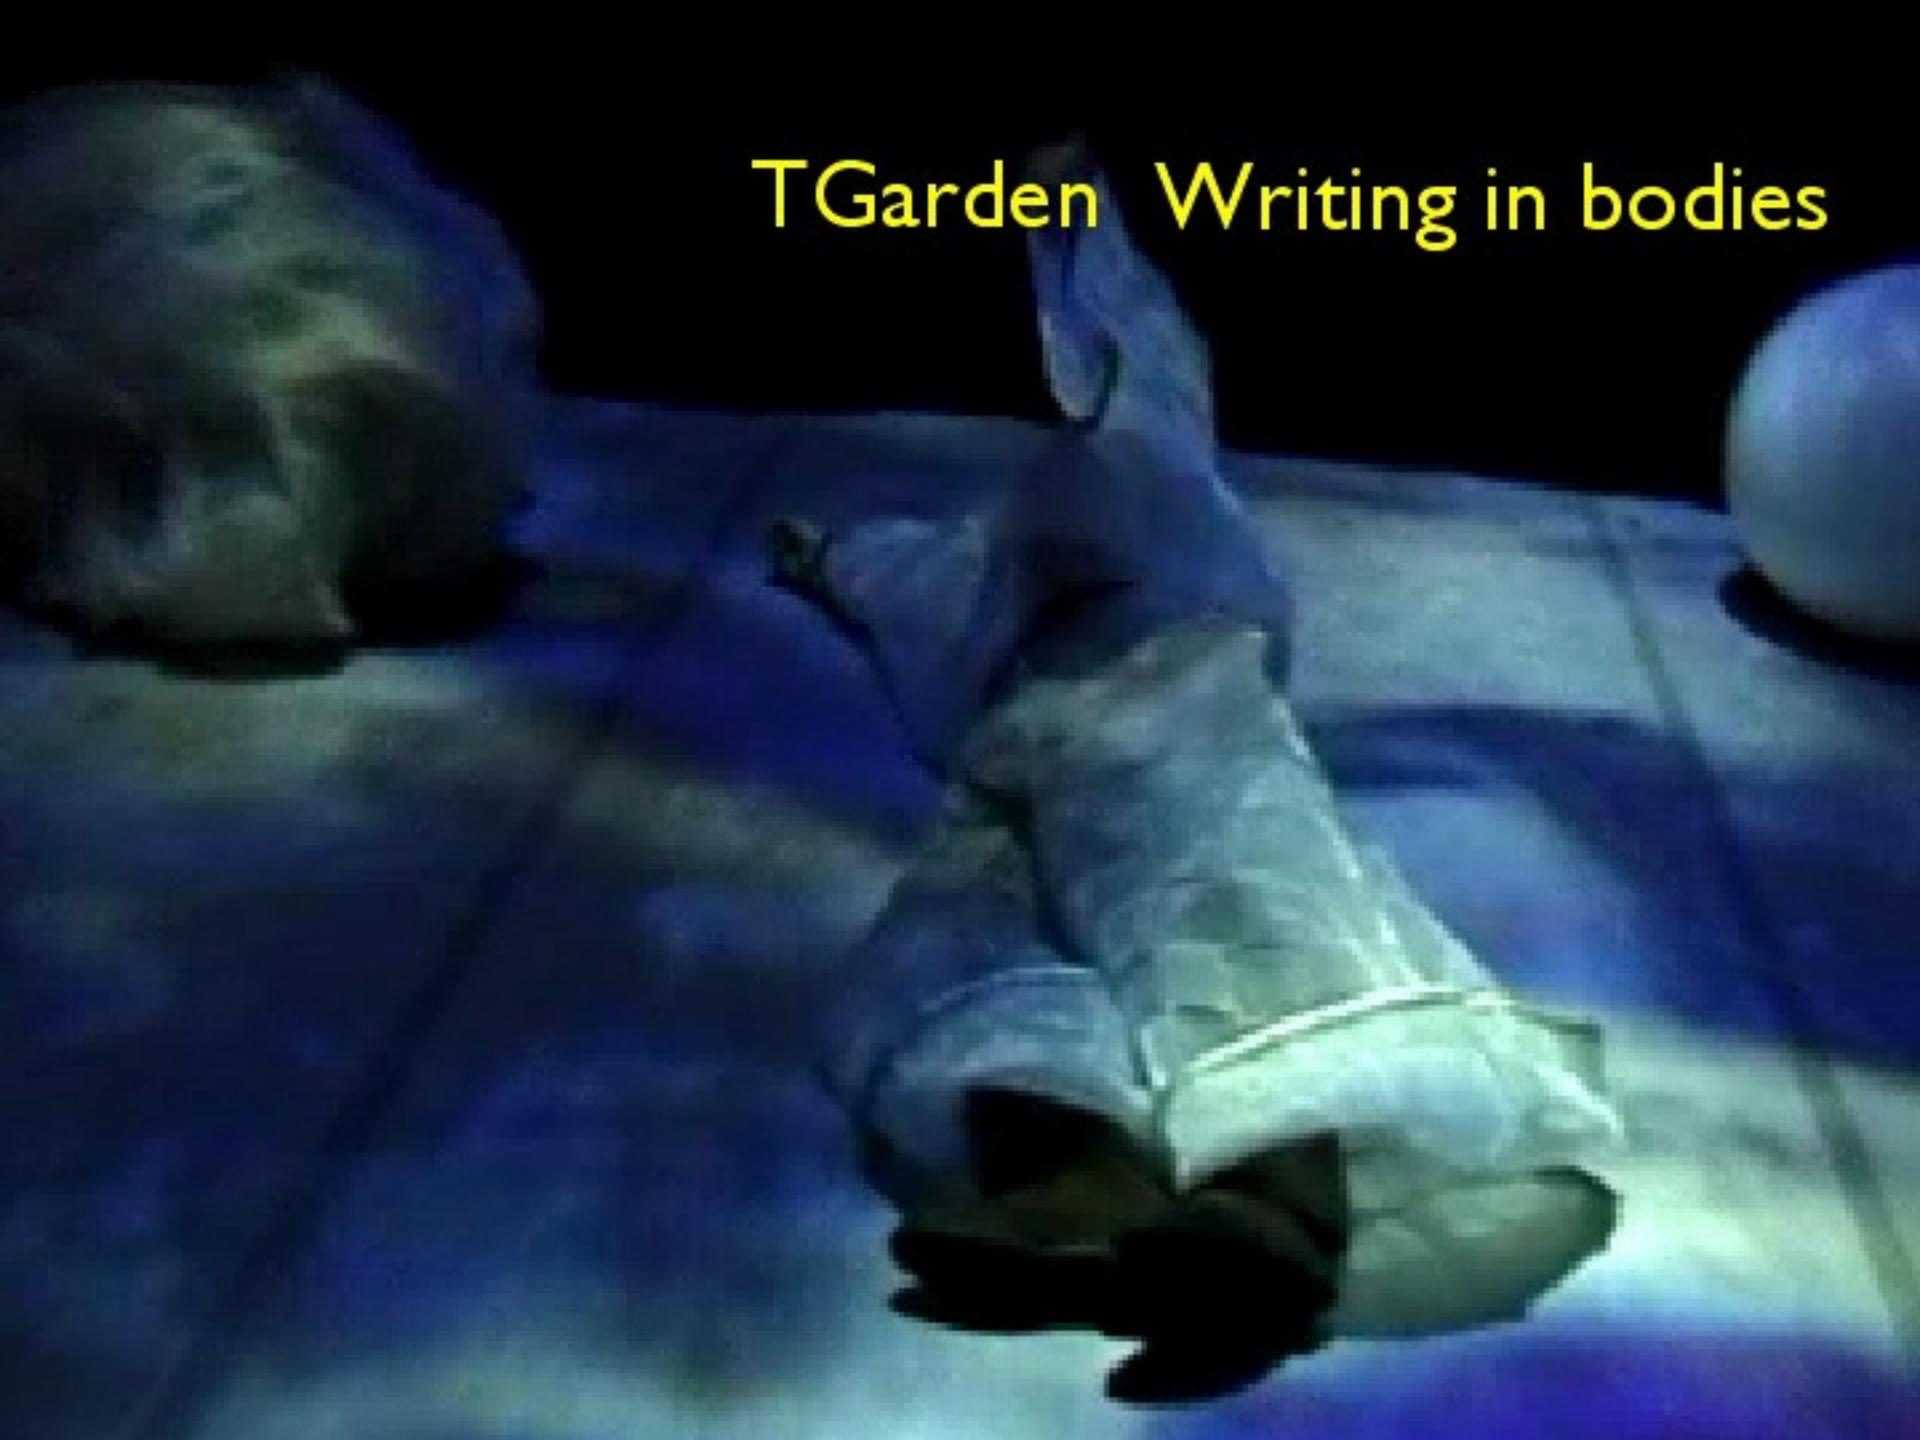

- As...
- ~~Calculator~~
- ~~Recording device~~
- Writing space

some behaviouralist myths

Meaning is coded in the signifier.

Intentionality can be inferred from (bounded) context.

- You can tell meaning and intent from observables.

TGarden Writing in bodies

TGarden a responsive space

• (Banff Centre • 2001)
• Ars Electronica Linz • September 2001

TGarden a responsive space

• V2 Rotterdam • October 2001

behaviouralist myths

- Meaning is coded in the signifier.
- Intention can be inferred from (bounded) context.
- You can tell meaning and intent from observables.
  - A bird-watcher and a rock-hound were hiking on a mountain...

meaningful aesthetic experiences?

- Game - simulate world
- Novel - thick world
- Theater - sketch of world
  - Analysis: Brecht's gestus and LehreStücke
- Embedding in the world
  - Architecture
  - Urban Design
  - TGardens as substrate for writing in the world

Topological Media Lab

<http://titanium.lcc.gatech.edu/topologicalmedia/>

TGarden Project

<http://titanium.lcc.gatech.edu/tgarden/>